UKRAINE CRISIS: FAMILIES ON THE RUN

According to the United Nations, there are more than 1.7 million Ukrainians displaced and refugees due to the war. Despite a ceasefire, daily violence remains high and more families are fleeing to save their lives.

DARIYA'S STORY

The dark rings around Dariya Bilichenko's eyes betray fatigue. After enduring two weeks of constant artillery shelling, she took her 3-year-old child and joined a convoy of passenger vehicles on 28 January to flee the railroad town of Vuhlehirsk.

After traversing five cities, Dariya finally joined a dozen distant relatives in government-controlled Sviatohirsk, not far from a monastery situated where the eastern Luhansk, Donetsk and Kharkiv regions meet.

For people such as Dariya Bilichenko, the church is providing more than just financial help. It is also providing them with a more elusive gift: hope.

HUMANITARIAN IMPACT

- Over 5 million living in Donetsk and Luhansk regions are directly affected by the war;
- 9,940 people dead, 23,500 wounded since the beginning of Russian intervention in Eastern Ukraine;
- Most of the 44 million Ukrainians are affected by deepened economic crisis.

RECENT POLITICAL DEVELOPMENTS

- Nov 2013 – Pro European Union demonstrations begin;
- Feb 2014 – President Yanukovich flees the country and takes refuge in Russia;
- Mar 2014 – Russia takes Ukrainian Crimea and pro-Russian forces start military operation in Luhansk and Donetsk;
- May 2014 – Petro Poroshenko is elected as the new president of Ukraine;
